

Bridges High Schoolers at Work

June - August '13

This summer, Bridges connected 39 high school students with summer jobs at 13 partner organizations. From Tuesday - Friday, students worked in jobs that exposed them to fields including law, culinary arts, healthcare, human services, and politics. On Mondays, they came to St. Paul's School for a day of workshops providing preparation for the SAT, opportunities to hone high school writing skills, and speakers / activities on college and career related topics.

YouthWorks, Capital Educators, and our 13 job partners provided Bridges high school students with some incredible growth opportunities this past summer as you can see from the snapshots below.

Kristina working on a special project with Art with a Heart.

High school juniors playing the "GPA Game" during a Monday guidance session at St. Paul's School

Donovan hard at work for Mr. Hosea with City Hall in the Office of the City Council President.

Blair learning how to pickle garlic while working at The Maryland Club.