

Weekend Mentoring Class 2 Gets Underway

December 4, 2010

This fall, Bridges welcomes its second class of Bridges Weekend Mentors. Orientation for this group of eight adults occurred on November 29 and was followed by a day of activities on December 4 that allowed mentors and sixth grade students to meet and begin the relationship building process. The Alliteration Name Game, A Mighty Wind Blows, and Brain Quest - these are just a few of the day's bonding activities.

Janay and John race towards the mid-court line at the beginning of a round of dodgeball.

Bridges mentor, Matt, helping students Shayla and Tyreek reason their way through a Brain Quest trivia question on geography.

Bridges mentor, Tania, working with students Trey-Lonte and Erika to determine their team's response to a question during Brain Quest.

Prior to Brain Quest, students and mentors filled out and discussed "Interest Surveys". After small discussions, the group tried to get an idea of member's shared interests.
